

Innovation and Development through Transformation of Gender Norms in Agriculture and Natural Resource Management in Kyrgyzstan

Case synthesis report

Kyrgyz community, Jalal-Abad region, Southwest Kyrgyzstan

Photo: M. Elias/Bioversity International

RESEARCH
PROGRAM ON
Forests, Trees and Agroforestry

Contributing Authors:

Gulnara Ibraeva¹, Marlène Elias², Mehriyul Ablezova¹, Anastasiia Danshina¹

¹ PIL research & consulting company, Bishkek, Kyrgyz Republic

² Bioversity International, Serdang, Malaysia

Suggested Citation: Ibraeva, G., Elias, M., Ablezova, M., Danshina, A. 2016. Enabling Gender Equality in Agricultural and Environmental Innovation in Southwestern Kyrgyzstan. Bioversity International, Rome.

For information please contact Marlène Elias at marlene.elias@cgiar.org

Published June 2016

Bioversity International, Rome

We gratefully acknowledge the Kyrgyz women and men who enthusiastically shared their experiences with us.

CONTENTS

I. Introduction to the community.....	2
A. Community profile	11
B. Justification for the selection of the community for a case study	16
C. Situating the case in the sampling frame and in the larger global and national context.....	18
II. Prevailing gender norms	23
A. Local norms for men’s and women’s expected roles in the domestic sphere	23
Worthy of respect in the community	25
B. Local norms for men’s and women’s roles in agricultural/NRM livelihoods.....	31
C. Local norms surrounding women’s physical mobility and inclusion in public “spaces” of their community	32
D. Family formation practices in the community	37
E. Domestic violence	39
III. Agency and Innovation in Agriculture.....	41
A. Agricultural and NRM innovations deemed most important	41
B. The qualities of the most important innovations	44
C. Women’s versus men’s experiences with the focal innovation.....	46
D. Levels of trust/social cohesion in the community	49
IV. Social and Economic Mobility.....	50
A. Ladder of life.....	50
B. Role of agricultural and NRM livelihoods in positioning households on the Ladder	53
C. The influence of ritual in positioning of households on the Ladder.....	55
D. Factors that prevent upward mobility on the Ladder.....	57
E. The roles gender norms, agricultural innovation, and household cooperation/conflict play in poor people’s mobility and resilience	58
V. Summary of main findings	59
A. Tradition of forest management in Talas.....	59
B. Institutional conditions for development of innovative and equitable forest use	60
C. Actors of innovation	61
D. Changes in the gender order, gender roles and innovations in Talas village	62